Re ScanSoft v. Voice Signal Technologies, Inc. et al, Civil Action No. 04-10353 PBS
Our File 2639/509

Dear Judge Saris:

The issues raised in Attorney Columbia's letter of May 5, 2006 [D.N. 390] have now been mooted. With VST counsel's agreement, Dr. Goldhor participated in the meeting with Professor Ney on Monday, May 8th.

Specifically, after reviewing the Declaration of Dr. Goldhor filed with the Court [D.N. 392] and after cross-examining Dr. Goldhor under oath at the start of Monday's meeting, VST withdrew its objection to Dr. Goldhor's participation. In his declaration and in his sworn testimony on Monday, Dr. Goldhor stated that he did not examine VST's source code provided to ScanSoft's designated counsel on a VST laptop. Dr. Goldhor's testimony was that he briefly reviewed a mere seven (7) lines of code on paper and did no analysis of VST's source code. Moreover, Dr. Goldhor testified that he returned the laptop containing VST's source code immediately following the hearing on Friday, May 5th and did not retain a copy.

Respectfully,

Lee Carl Bromberg
